Background

Voting is a Constitutional Right of all citizens over 18 years of age in India. Unfortunately, many among us, for some or the other reason abstain from voting. It is even more unfortunate that there are scores of people who are not even registered voters, making them automatically ineligible to vote. Voting is as much a responsibility as it is a right. The whole edifice of Indian democracy is built on the foundation of voting. If citizens are not careful about casting their vote – or worse, skip their vote altogether – it will jeopardize the existence of our democratic Republic.

At present the major challenges faced by the citizens’ point of view have been the huge gap between the population which is eligible to vote and the actual registered voters, and secondly, the low voter turnout.

A survey conducted by home rental platform named Nestaway titled ‘Urban Migrants: The Silent Spectators of Indian Elections’, stated that as much as 91% urban migrants are not registered as voters (Nestaway, 2019). The study surveyed over 1,100 urban migrants in their 20s, residing in metropolitan cities including Delhi-NCR, Mumbai, Hyderabad, Pune and Bangalore due to change in job, higher education and marriage.

Another report by Mint analysing the electoral and census data in India showed that more than 50 million voters, including youngsters, may have been missed from the electoral rolls of India in general election 2019.

As per the reports of the Election Commission of India (ECI) of 2014, nearly 20% of India’s population was either nearing voting age or have gained adult enfranchisement. The ECI’s study of voter registration in Maharashtra, found that the voter registration gap among youth voters (aged 18-19) is at 61.62%. The reasons like lack of awareness or lack of motivation to enrol as soon as they turn 18 were cited by the ECI (ECI, 2014) (Monk Prayogshala, 2018).

Studies indicate that there are a range of behavioural factors that are pertinent to studying youth voter registration (Neri et al., 2016). Among other reasons, students are uncertain about the details and implications of registering and could often overestimate the difficulty of the process. An astounding 97% of surveyed individuals by ECI said they did not vote because they either did not have a voter ID card or that their names were not on the electoral rolls (ECI, 2014) (Monk Prayogshala, 2018).
Shambhar Takke Shaai Mission 2022

In order to increase voter registration, voter turnout and ethical voting for making democracy more vibrant at the gross root level, Project Mumbai has signed a three year long MoU with the State Election Commission (SEC) to run its initiative named Shambhar Takke Shaai (STS) over the Mumbai Metropolitan Region (MMR).

The objective of this initiative is to promote public awareness regarding voting and touch the cord with all education institutes, housing societies and corporates in MMR and at the same time reach out to 100 % registration of young voters in all the education Institutes and major corporates of Mumbai.

As a part of this initiative, Project Mumbai has undertaken various activities to increase the voter registration and generate awareness amongst the voters in urban local bodies with the help of Corporate Houses, Industry Associations, Voluntary Institutions, Educational Institutions, etc.

The Purpose and objective

Valedictory, Mission Success Celebration and Announcing the way forward
The phase 1 of STS was planned in the month of August and September 2019. The aim was to increase voter registration among the youths and corporate employees. For this, mass voter registration drives were organised across selected college campuses, corporate houses and large residential complexes. This phase being also a pilot run brought learning and experience for the entire three-year program.

Scale and Coverage:

For the phase 1 of STS which was a pilot phase, it was decided to conduct voter registration and awareness drives across 100 colleges in Mumbai, to target the youth who has just turned 18. In addition to the college youth, it was decided to conduct the drives in top 10 corporate houses of the city for the migrant working-class population.

The Timeline:

The MoU was inked with The State election commission in June 2019, and the state elections were scheduled in October 2019. For organising the voter registration drives and awareness campaign under this initiative, the period from July to September was the most suitable one.

With meticulous planning, the following timeline was decided and executed by Project Mumbai.

The Process:

1. Partnering for volunteers and Outreach

The proposed plan and timelines were shared with the State election Commission and the next step was getting volunteers for conducting the voter registration drives and partners for awareness drives.

Project Mumbai was fortunate to have the support the Mumbai University and its National Service Scheme (NSS) wing of that brought in a pool of student volunteers for implementing the drive in 50 colleges were cherry picked from the Mumbai city, western suburbs and the central suburbs based on the availability of the NSS units in those colleges. Four volunteers from each of these colleges were selected as ‘Campus Voting Ambassadors’. These ambassadors were then trained by the state election commission on the process for online registration of new voters.

The Mumbai Districts Rotary Clubs volunteered to reaching out to the housing societies in the south Mumbai.

The ‘Hindustan Times’ daily and one of the leading radio stations ‘Red FM’ volunteered in spreading the awareness across the city by covering various activities conducted under this initiative.
The posters for the outreach were designed by the renowned media house Madison BnB. The posters were designed for different audience groups so that everyone feels connected with the issue.

Project Mumbai has also partnered with Monk Prayogshala, a not for profit organisation from Mumbai, implemented the pilot on behavioural changes and analysis of the student group and employees, who participated in this drive. The detail analysis builds in the need for awareness and initiating the cause with different citizens group for sensitising the voting rights and would eventually bring in success participation to the drive.

This also set up an approach and mechanism different than the usual one taken up by the State Election Commission for the future.

2. Capacity Building of Our Volunteers

With partners on board for various tasks, the volunteers had to be trained for the conducting the registration drives. Project Mumbai organised one day training for these volunteers with the support of the State Election Commission (SEC), Maharashtra, in the St. Paul’s Institute of Communication Education, Bandra, on 8th August 2019. As many as 180 volunteers across 200 colleges from Mumbai city, western and eastern suburbs participated in the training.

In this training, the volunteers were given an orientation about the Mission STS by Mr. Shishir Joshi, CEO, Project Mumbai, and Ms. Rupali Vaidya, Head of Projects, Project Mumbai. Then the volunteers were trained by Mr. Chaitanya Prabhu, trainer from SEC, about the process they need to follow to register new voters with the election commission through the National Voter Service Portal (NVSP) online. The session was interactive, and the trainer also showed some simulation videos to the volunteers to give them a clear idea of what they are supposed to do. After the training, Mr. Suvedh Jaywant, Project Coordinator, Project Mumbai, explained the logistical plan of the two-month long drive.
3. The Voting Registration Drives in Colleges

In India, a person is eligible to vote once he/she completes 18 years of age. Most of the citizens are in the 1st or 2nd year of their graduation during this time. Thus, it was decided to organise the voter registration drives in the colleges across the city so that the students who have just completed 18 years of age can register themselves without much efforts.

With this motive, 30 colleges from Mumbai city and 10 colleges each from western and eastern suburbs were picked and drive was planned in these colleges. The colleges having large number of students and an NSS unit were chosen. Team Project Mumbai reached out to the principals of these colleges and explained the rationale and process of the drive. The principals and the college managements were proactive in providing the necessary permissions, time slots and infrastructural support for the drive. The drive was conducted successfully across 37 (7 from western, 8 from central, 22 from the city) of the targeted 50 colleges from 19th August to 20th September. The drive was carefully planned and scheduled such that it did not clash with any other student activity or exams in the college and students and volunteers both could participate easily.

The campus ambassadors formed a team in each of their colleges by involving other NSS volunteers from the college and training them. This team then created awareness among their college students and publicised the drive. The eligible students were explained the list of documents they needed to carry, and the date, time, and venue of the drive.

The drives saw a huge turn-out and around 1700 plus eligible students registered themselves as voters from this drive.

4. The drives in Corporates and Housing Societies

People working in corporate sector offices in India are most of the times migrated from some other part of the country for the job. Due to frequently changing location of the job they do not register themselves as the voters. Also, those registered have their names in the electoral list of their native place of some old address. Project Mumbai thus planned to conduct the voter registration drives across such corporate campuses and the residential complexes where these employees live. The drive aimed at registering new voters as well as transferring the earlier registered names to the new location due to migration.
The employees and residents were informed about the drive through communication by e-mail and putting up posters at various places in the campus.

In the housing societies, not only the residents, but also the support staff, domestic help, security guards, etc., who were not enrolled as voters or were enrolled at their native place were also the beneficiaries.

The drives were conducted successfully across 7 campuses where around 1000 employees, their family members, senior citizens and support staff were enrolled.

5. The Success

The Phase 1 of Shambhar Takke Shaai which is seen as a 2-month pilot for the 3-year long project received huge participation from almost 100 NSS volunteers from 38 colleges across Mumbai, and around 8 corporate and residential campuses.

Around 1700 plus students from different colleges who had just turned 18, were the beneficiaries from the drives run in colleges over a period of one month. In addition to this, the drive conducted in corporate and residential campuses became beneficial to around 1000 employees of organisations like Morgan Stanley, Kalpataru, K Raheja, and the residents of Kalpataru premises. Not only the employees and the residents, but also the migrant support staff, including the security and housekeeping staff were direct beneficiaries of the drive.

6. Participants Speak

“Everyone in our society just complains about the policies, rules, schemes and other decisions made by the government, but there are large number of people in our society who doesn't cast their vote, which is the basic right of citizen of India. I believe every responsible citizen should cast their vote for the betterment of the nation and for this voter card is mandatory therefore I volunteered for this voter registration drive along with Project Mumbai which came up with such a nice initiative.”

-Yogesh Mishra
Campus Voting Ambassador
Vidyalankar Institute of Technology

“Voter registration drive helped me understand how so many people of voting age go unregistered thus making me feel a sense of responsibility towards the society, to do my best to persuade them and make them understand the need for it. Further, it developed some amount of patience in me to deal effectively with people and sites and to keep my cool. Lastly this initiative made me feel better about myself and satisfied as I feel I'm doing something for the society.”

-Vidha Prabhat
Campus Voting Ambassador
KC College
“As we all know about the upcoming Vidhansabha election in our state, as observed from the past elections graph, there is very less amount of voting percentage. There hardly any state with voting percentage more than 65%. I always discussed this issue with my friends and colleagues. Always think about there is necessity of change! But how? Was the question. STS gave me that opportunity but to be the part of this change. Specially for this project I conducted a meeting of NSS volunteers for this project to make proper and complete utilisation of this project. This is the reason why I wanted to be a part of this project. I thank Project Mumbai for giving me this opportunity.”

7. Challenges Faced

Project kicked off just 2 months prior to the elections. With various stakeholders on board and such short span of time, planning the activities was the most challenging task.

The NSS volunteers from colleges and the college students for whom the drive was planned, had their exams and other activities scheduled in the month of August and September. At the same time, there were various calendar holidays in August and a week-long Ganeshotsav festive vacation in September. Considering these holidays, and other engagements, scheduling the drives across 50 college campuses and 10 corporate and residential campuses was a herculean task.

However, with successful drive across 38 colleges and 7 campuses (75% completion) within a span of 2 months with more than 2500 beneficiaries, shows the great potential of this project. Project Mumbai has thus decided to continue with this activity and plan for the phase 2 of Shambhar Takke Shaa.

The Way Forward

With the successful inception of the mission Shambhar Takke Shaa and its successful implementation, Project Mumbai has now decided to launch the Phase 2 of this initiative in January 2020.

This phase would target to cover all the college campuses in Mumbai city and the suburbs, all the campuses of top 10 corporate houses in Mumbai, and selective large residential complexes where there are large number of unregistered voters. Apart from the registration drives, there are plans to run awareness campaigns over different types of media and also organise various competitions among school and college students to bring out new and innovative ways for creating awareness among the masses.

Further, after reviewing the outcomes of the phase 2, the third and fourth phase shall be planned.
